

Circles of Control

Things you can't control. Like the weather, if people like you or not, past choices, and what others say.

---

Things you can influence but not completely control. Like your friendships, and the mood in a room.

---

Things you have full control over. Like your words, who you spend time with, and asking for help.

