CH<sup>osen</sup>™ STRENGTHENING FAMILIES
HELPING CHILDREN HEAL FROM TRAUMA

Like you, it is painful to see so many struggling and deeply impacted by this pandemic and the ongoing economic challenges. During dark times, it is imperative that we find threads of hope and celebrate victories.

I want to share one of those. We began working with a little boy named Collin and his foster family back in April right when Covid-19 put everyone on lock down. Collin had just been placed in this foster home after a disrupted placement. Within three days of this new home, he was in a psychiatric hospital at just 4 years old.

His out-of-control behaviors seemed impossible to manage, despite how seasoned the foster parents were. They had successfully raised two biological children who were out of the home and were confident they had more love to give.

Our Care Manager began working with the family every week to equip them with trauma-informed parenting techniques and therapeutic supports. All of Collin's clinical markers — PTSD, anger, aggression, etc. were off the charts. Within four months, this child's behaviors and clinical numbers all went down dramatically.

Collin has recently been reunited with his biological mom, and Chosen has been able able to begin working with her. His previous foster family is still providing respite care for mom to maintain their loving relationship with Collin.

Every week, our staff is sharing stories like this with me, full of hope and healing.

Your gifts and support make this life-altering work possible. You're changing generational family trees. A simple "thank you" is not enough to express my deep gratitude.

Gratefully yours,
